Preface

When I was a little girl my idol was my maternal grandfather Judge Joseph W. du Bocage. He was tall, handsome, full of fun and three quarters French. Grandpa always said he thought I must look like his French mother (who died when he was three) because I was small. Among the men folks there never was but one small Bocage. That was Uncle Joe; he was only six feet.

A passionate loyalty to every thing French was in me when I was born. That is why I have wanted for a long time to publish these Powhatan County marriages. The French Huguenot settlement of Manakin Towne is in Powhatan where there is a higher percentage of French names than any other county in Virginia.

Powhatan County was formed 3 June 1777 from Cumberland (Hening's Statutes at Large IX 322). A small part of Chesterfield was added in 1849 (Hornbook of Virginia History p 17).

It is the only county in Virginia named for an Indian Chief (Robinson 188). Powhatan (1550?- 1618) the celebrated chief, head of a federation of Algonquian tribes known as the Confederacy of Powhatan in Eastern Virginia (Webster's Biographical Dictionary 1943, p 1208) was the father of Pocahontas. It was she, who in 1614 married Captain John Rolfe and through their only child, Thomas Rolfe, became the ancestress of a long and distinguished line of Virginians.

It was very pleasant working in the Powhatan Court House. The County Clerk, Mr. James A. Tilman III, was cordial and courteous. Goodness knows he ought to know how to be polite because he must have been raised in the Court House being a third generation clerk. His grandfather was Clerk from 1887 to 1920; his father was Clerk from 1920 to 1952 and now he takes over well grounded in the duties and requirements of the office of Clerk. Powhatan could not do better and I hope he has a little boy coming on.

There is a highway marker in front of the Court House which reads: "Powhatan Court House. The first Court House was built about 1777. The village that grew up around it was long known as Scottsville for General Charles Scott, Revolutionary soldier who lived in this county. A skirmish occurred here 25 January 1865. Nearby is a tavern of the Revolutionary period."

Mr. William R. Blandford, Commonwealth Attorney for Powhatan was most helpful, even lending me pamphlets and papers designed to acquaint me with the physical, social and commercial features of the county.

From them I learned that there are in Powhatan interesting ruins of old foundations with walls 3 feet thick made of huge blocks of stone. Evidence points to these beautiful examples of masonry as having been used during the Revolution to manufacture cannon.

On Highway 711 another historical marker furnishes the following information: "Here General Robert E. Lee, returning from Appomattux pitched his tent for the last time 14 April 1865." Across the road and up a slope is "Windsor" home of his brother Charles Carter Lee, whom he had stopped to see before continuing his journey to Richmond.

Powhatan County Order Book I page 1 recounts in the quaint language of by gone days the first coming together of the men who would hold in their hands the reins of administrative power.

"At the house of Littleberry Mosby, Gentleman, in the County of Powhatan by appointment of Robert Smith, Gentleman, commissioned to be the first sheriff of the said county on the seventeenth day of July in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy seven being the third Thursday of the same month.

"A commission of the Peace and a commission of Oyer and Terminer for this county directed to John Netherland, William Fleming, Littleberry Mosby, John Mayo, William Smith, Thomas Turpin, jun<sup>r</sup>, Robert Smith, Edward Haskins, John Harris, Richard Eggleston, Vincent Markham, John Swann, Richard Crump, William Mayo, and Edmund Logwood, Gentlemen, bearing date of twenty fifth day of June last past were produced and read and thereupon the said Littleberry Mosby, Thomas Turpin, jun<sup>r</sup>, administered to the said John Netherland the oath of Fidelity and of a Justice of the Peace and the Oath of a Justice of Oyer and Terminer which he took and then the said John Netherland administered the said oath to the said Littleberry Mosby, William Smith, Thomas Turpin, jun<sup>r</sup>, Edward Haskins, John Harris, Vincent Markham, Richard Crump, and Edward Logwood which they severally took."

The minutes were signed by Thomas Miller as the first Clerk of Powhatan.

The new county's first representation in the General Assembly was the session which began 20 October 1777 with William Mayo, Jr., and William Fleming as initial delegates.

I am tremendously in the debt of Mr. J. W. Dudley and Mr. William J. Van Schreeven of the Virginia Archives for some of these data, and to Mrs. Nell Nugent, also of the Virginia Archives for checking some discrepancies for me.

It was Henry of Navarre, who, as Henry IV of France issued the Edict of Nantes 13 April 1598, which gave protection to the French Protestants. It was Louis XIV who, almost a century later renewed the persecution of the Huguenots by the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes which was signed on the 18th and published on the 22nd October 1685. John Jay, speaking to the Huguenot Society of America at New York on the 200th anniversary, 22 October 1885 called it "a crime and folly with out parallel to lose for France by atrocious means, hundreds of thousands who carried industry, intelligence and prosperity, light, truth and happiness to other lands including our own."

France lost the flower of the nation, the cream of her people when she drove from her borders the best she had in spirit, industry, thrift and piety.

Froude, the historian says "The Huguenots were men whose lives were as upright as their intellect was commanding, their public aims untainted with selfishness, unalterably just where duty commanded them to be stern but with the tenderness of a woman in their heart, frank, true, cheerful and humorous."

The Hon. W. H. Egle said "The Huguenots as a class furnished to America a larger number of men of eminence in proportion to their numbers than any other nationality."

The Parish of King William was founded by the French Huguenot refugees in the year 1700 upon land granted them by the King of England, William III, and upon which they built their first church. This Parish lay in Henrico until 1728 then in the confines of Goochland from 1728 to 1749, when it fell in Cumberland. When Powhatan was formed 1777, Manakin Towne was included in its boundaries where it still remains today.

The "old church" at Manakin (Episcopal) is the fourth built in King William Parish on the early Huguenot's land. It is a tiny white frame building in a sylvan setting. Beside it is the huge granite cross, a monument dedicated to those French Huguenots who brought with them a buoyancy and cheerfulness, gentleness of manner and all those qualities which gave nobility and grandure to the human race.

Brock, in his introduction to his "Huguenot Emigration" says: "In the year 1700 more than five hundred emigrants at the head of whom was the Marquis de la Muce, were landed in Virginia by four successive debarkations... They appear to have settled at different points....two hundred or more at a spot some twenty miles above Richmond on the south side of the James River, now in Powhatan County where ten thousand acres of land which had been occupied by the extinct Manakin tribe of Indians, were given them. They were also exempted from the payment of all taxes for seven years and were allowed to support their minister in their own way."

They found a welcome in the Old Dominion and by their skill, industry and worth speedily gained recognition and consequent prosperity.

Robert L. Scribner writing in the "Virginia Cavalcade" (Vol. III No.3) says: "Hounded out of France the Huguenots found haven here and the influence of their descendants is still felt in the land."

In every crisis of American history men of Huguenot blood have wrought mightily for the upbuilding of the American commonwealth.

This was the dauntless race, the lovable people who suffered so much for their faith and became champions of freedom where ever they went and an important factor in human progress. They became a vital part of American life and character so that there is not a branch of literature, science or art in which they have not distinguished themselves.

The history of the Huguenots is a history of courage. The Huguenot Cross is rightly called "Fair signet of honor" and those who wear it consider it a hallowed jewel.
